The Scottish Business Crime Centre is a non-profit making organisation created in 1996 under the Business Crime Reduction Strategy for Scotland, to establish a unique partnership approach between the Police, business community and Government.

The main function of the Centre is to provide practical advice to the business/commercial sectors on how to develop business crime reduction and prevention strategies.

We aim to reduce business crime using a number of measures:

- promoting specific initiatives within industry sectors and community groups
- sharing good practice approaches to business related crime prevention
- raising awareness of the level, impact and cost of business crime creating and supporting a network of relevant partnerships and programmes

'Our mission is to reduce business crime in Scotland to create a safe and secure trading environment in which businesses and communities flourish, employment opportunities are developed and prosperity is encouraged'
